Founded in 2004, Clean Land Air Water (CLAW) was established for the provision of environmental services to First Nations, Inuit and Northern communities as well as Federal Government Departments.

CLAW plays a significant role in gaining the support of community leaders to promote environmental solutions that are founded in experience and knowledge. CLAW leads the recruitment and training of Indigenous resources to assist with the economic and skills development for community members.

Our infrastructure includes world class engineering and technology partners, who work closely with CLAW to deliver our services. We are ready to work with your organization to provide quality engineering services at a competitive cost. CLAW prides itself on working in a meaningful way with communities and clients to achieve sustainable engineered solutions for First Nation communities.

The future is bright!
